Distributor and dealer onboarding form (draft)

Nov 3, 2026 · @JOE

Purpose

This replaces the single request form with a guided, step-by-step application, so every applicant gives the same information in the same order and management can compare them.

1. The applicant works through the steps on the website, one screen at a time, and can save and return later.
2. They upload four shop photos (two outside, two inside) and their business documents.
3. They accept the terms and submit. They get a reference number and an automatic confirmation.
4. The application appears in the staff dashboard as New. Only authorised Peacock Paints staff review and decide. Submitting does not make anyone a dealer or distributor.

The steps

Eight short screens. A star (*) marks a required answer.

Step	What we ask
1. Applying as	Distributor or dealer *; business name *; trading name; type: limited company, partnership, sole proprietor *.
2. Contact	Contact person and role *; phone *; WhatsApp number; email; shop address *; town or district *; map pin or landmark.
3. Business background	Years in business *; what the business sells today; paint brands currently stocked; number of staff; own delivery vehicle yes/no; shop owned or rented; approximate shop and storage size.

Step	What we ask
4. Registration and tax	Registration status *: registered company, registered business name, or not yet registered; registration number; TIN *; trading licence number *; VAT registered yes/no. Copies uploaded in step 5.
5. Photos and documents	Four shop photos *: two outside (the shopfront and its surroundings) and two inside (shelving and storage). Copies of registration certificate, TIN certificate and trading licence.
6. Next of kin and references	Next of kin: name *, relationship *, phone *. Two trade references (business name, contact person, phone).
7. Terms	Read the terms on screen, tick to accept *, type full name and date as the declaration *, and consent to Peacock Paints keeping the information (section on data protection).
8. Review and submit	Show all answers for checking; submit; show the reference number.

The form saves progress on the applicant's device so a dropped connection does not lose their answers.

Photos and documents

- Shop photos: exactly four. Two outside, two inside. JPG, PNG or WebP. The website shrinks each to a web size before upload.
- Business papers: registration certificate, TIN certificate and trading licence, as PDF or photo, up to 10 MB each.
- Identity: a copy of the contact person's national ID or passport only if management decides it is needed (see open questions). We would not ask the applicant to type an ID number into the form.
- Applicants who cannot upload a file can say so and bring it to the office.

Typical dealer programmes ask for the same kinds of proof: business registration, a tax number, a trade licence and evidence of the premises (example from a third-party guide to a large paint company's dealership, not that company's official terms).

Terms outline (draft)

This is a starting structure for management and a lawyer to complete. It is not legal advice. Items in [brackets] are for management to set.

1. Appointment and territory. Non-exclusive appointment for [area] unless management agrees otherwise in writing. No agency or partnership is created.
2. Brand use. Use of the Peacock Paints name, logos and mock-ups only as supplied and approved.
3. Prices and payment. Peacock Paints sets prices. Payment terms, credit limits and deposits: [to be set].
4. Stock and storage. Minimum opening stock [to be set]. Products stored and handled as the data sheets and labels direct.
5. Technical information. The dealer repeats only information in approved Peacock Paints material and refers technical or safety questions to the Peacock Paints team.
6. Quality and complaints. Faulty or damaged products and customer complaints are reported to Peacock Paints within [period].
7. Records and visits. Peacock Paints may visit the premises and ask for sales and stock information [to be agreed].
8. Law and standards. Compliance with Ugandan law, including tax and consumer protection.
9. Confidentiality and data. Customer and business information is used only for the dealership.
10. Ending the arrangement. Notice period [to be set]; return of branded material; settlement of accounts.
11. Governing law. The laws of Uganda.

Review and approval

Only authorised staff decide. The dashboard shows each application with a status:

1. New: just received. The team is alerted.
2. Under review: a named staff member has it.
3. More information needed: the applicant is asked for a missing document or photo.
4. Site visit: the premises are visited if management requires it.
5. Approved or Declined: a decision with a short internal note.

6. Agreement signed: the written agreement is signed outside the website.

The applicant is told when their application is received and when a decision is made. Nothing on the website gives or implies dealer status.

Data protection

The application holds personal and business data, including a next of kin's details and copies of tax and registration papers.

- Photos and documents go to private storage: visible only to signed-in staff, never public links.
- The form shows a short notice before step 1 saying what is collected, why, who sees it and how long it is kept [period to be set].
- The applicant ticks consent. The next of kin's details are given by the applicant, who confirms the person knows.
- Declined applications are deleted after [period].
- A qualified adviser should check the wording against Uganda's Data Protection and Privacy Act before launch.

Questions for management

- Dealer and distributor: one form for both, or different questions (a distributor usually needs warehouse space and delivery)?
- Should we ask for a copy of a national ID or passport?
- Minimum requirements to qualify (years in business, shop size, opening stock)?
- Is a financial reference or bank letter wanted?
- Do applicants pay any fee or deposit? (Nothing is collected on the website either way.)
- Who approves, and how fast do we promise a reply?
- Terms: payment terms, credit limits, territory, notice period, all marked [to be set] above.
